THE UNIVERSITY COAT-OF-ARMS AND BANNERS

In 1890, at the request of Leslie Lyle Campbell, Class of 1887, Professor W. G. Brown designed a white silk banner bearing the words Washington and Lee University embroidered in gold letters on a blue scroll. Below the scroll was a composite shield made up of heraldic elements from the coats-of-arms of the Washington family and the Lee family. The shield has survived the years, but the original banner has not.

Before 1903, Professor Brown designed a full coat-of-arms with crest and motto. The black raven rising out of the golden ducal coronet comes from the Washington crest. The upper left quarter of the arms depicts an open book with an injunction from I Thessalonians to “test all things.” The upper right quarter exhibits the arms of Washington of Sulgrave, and the lower left quarter the arms of Lee of Coton. The arms in the lower right quarter are those of Astley of Staffordshire, and signify a marriage between the Lee and the Astley families. The motto, non incautus futuri, based on a phrase from Horace’s Satires and translated “not unmindful of the future,” comes from the Lee family arms.

In 1998, in celebration of the 250th anniversary of the University, David D. Brown, Law School Class of 2000, designed four banners that draw upon the original heraldic design of 1890. The new University banner is a revised version of the design by Professor W. G. Brown. The banners for the College, the Ernest Williams II School of Commerce, Economics, and Politics, and the School of Law derive their separate designs from the University banner.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

A mace is a ceremonial staff and a symbol of authority. The mace is carried by the Marshal to denote that the University is in session. It was designed in 1951 by Marion Junkin, Class of 1927 and Head of the Department of Fine Arts, and carved by Mary Barclay, a member of the staff of the Alumni Office, from a 150-year-old walnut beam taken from the old Lexington firehouse. The University coat-of-arms is carved on opposite sides of the urn-shaped head and painted silver, blue, red, and gold. Below the arms are the scroll and the motto. Atop the mace are the coronet and raven from the University crest.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

In the procession of the Faculty, guests will see a variety of academic costumes. The design of the gowns has evolved over centuries from medieval origins. Most of the regalia seen today represent the Doctor of Philosophy degree.

Traditionally, the doctoral gown is black, has full sleeves gathered at the wrists, velvet bars on the sleeves and velvet panels on the front. The colors on the hood, which is worn around the shoulders, designate both the academic discipline of the degree earned by the wearer and the university that awarded it. The gold tassel on the hat is another sign that the wearer holds a doctoral degree. Over the years some universities have adopted gowns in colors that complement their hoods.

THE FLAGS

The international flags on display represent the graduates from Argentina, Bolivia, Bulgaria, China, Dominican Republic, Ghana, Guyana, Haiti, India, Ireland, Israel, Jordan, Kenya, Romania, Russia, Swaziland, Uganda, United Kingdom, Vietnam, and the United States of America. The University is grateful to the family of Douglas Panzer, Class of 1998 and Class of 1999, for its generosity in providing the flags.

HONORARY DEGREES

NICHOLAS ADDISON PHILLIPS

presented May 9, 2009

Lord Chief Justice Nicholas Addison Phillips, Baron Phillips of Worth Matravers, you have distinguished yourself as one of the leading judicial voices of our time. As Lord Chief Justice of England and Wales, you were the highest judicial officer of England and Wales. You have been a central figure in England's historic modern constitutional reforms. In October of 2009, in your capacity as a Senior Law Lord, you will become the first President of the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom.

You read law at King's College, Cambridge University. You have served the legal system and government of Great Britain in many capacities throughout your extraordinary life in the law, as a member of the Royal Navy, as Junior Counsel to the Ministry of Defence, as a High Court Judge on the Queen's Bench, as a Lord Justice of Appeal, as a member of the Privy Council, as Master of the Rolls, Lord Chief Justice, and soon-to-be the first President of the United Kingdom's Supreme Court.

Throughout your career, you have been a champion of reasoned reform, respect for human rights, accountability, internationalism, and the rule of law. As a Law Lord, you ruled that the former Dictator of Chile, General Augusto Pinochet, should not be granted immunity for extraditable crimes. You have challenged the United Kingdom to address its prison overcrowding crisis, and have called for greater use of community sentences and other programs to enhance the possibility of rehabilitation. You have argued that Great Britain and the other nations of the world united in the war against terrorism must not, in their zeal for security, trample the human rights of immigrant populations.

In honoring you, Washington and Lee University celebrates the shared common-law heritage of our two nations, including our shared dedication to such fundamental legal norms as due process of law, as enshrined in the Constitution of the United States and the Magna Carta.

For having been a champion for approaching legal issues with a global outlook, a leader in Great Britain's relations with the judicial systems of Europe and the United States, and a tireless advocate for the rule of law, Washington and Lee University is proud to confer upon you, Lord Chief Justice Nicholas Addison Phillips, Baron Phillips of Worth Matravers, the Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

CHARLES RICHARD JOHNSON

presented June 4, 2009

Dr. Charles Richard Johnson is one of the most important intellectuals of our time—a prolific writer, a lifelong educator, a significant visual artist, and a philosopher who shines a light on American culture.

Johnson holds the S. Wilson and Grace M. Pollock Professorship for Excellence in English at the University of Washington, where he has taught for 33 years. He earned a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in journalism from Southern Illinois University, and a Ph.D. in philosophy from the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Johnson has written 17 books, more than 20 screenplays, and numerous essays, articles, short stories, and literary reviews. He has also worked as an editor, cartoonist, and journalist and has published more than 1,000 drawings in national publications.

Johnson has received many awards and recognitions. When he won the 1990 National Book Award in fiction for his novel Middle Passage, he was the first African-American male to win this prize since Ralph Ellison in 1953. Johnson has received NEA and Guggenheim fellowships, a Writers Guild Award for his PBS drama Booker, and numerous other prizes, honorary degrees, and awards, including a MacArthur Fellowship.

Johnson is best known for combining philosophy and fiction. He writes complex, challenging novels that explore the most probing philosophical issues of our time. He challenges the assumptions and beliefs of his readers and refuses all simplifications of the complexity of American reality, whether in terms of race, gender, history, politics, or religion.

Johnson also has made a great contribution to American culture by putting forth powerful and sometimes controversial ideas about the African-American experience. He rejects the idea that there is a narrowly defined “Black Experience,” positing that there are as many ways to be black in America as there are African Americans. Johnson has gone so far as to say that race is an illusion, asserting that we all share a common humanity that unites apparent differences of race. The ultimate goal of Johnson's artistic quest is articulating this broader view of the human experience that transcends racial designations.

For his innovative, hopeful, thought-provoking body of work, Washington and Lee is proud to confer upon Dr. Charles Johnson the Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

ALEXANDER SUSONG JONES

presented June 4, 2009

Alexander Susong Jones—author, broadcaster, winner of the Pulitzer Prize—is a Tennessee native. This fourth-generation journalist remains active in the ownership and management of his family’s newspapers, a business they have relished since 1916.

Jones graduated from Washington and Lee in 1968, following in the footsteps of his father, John M. Jones III, W&L class of 1937. From 1968 to 1971, he served as an officer in the United States Navy. He began his journalism career at the Daily Post-Athenian (in Athens, Tennessee), after which he joined the Greeneville (Tennessee) Sun, becoming editor in 1978. From 1983 to 1992, he worked for The New York Times, covering the press. In 1987, he received a Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the collapse of the Bingham family’s newspaper dynasty in Louisville, Kentucky.

This work led to a new career, as the author of books, starting with The Patriarch: The Rise and Fall of the Bingham Dynasty, co-authored with his wife, Susan Tiftt. Published in 1991, the book was named one of the ten best business books of the year by Business Week magazine. Jones and Tiftt’s second book, The Trust: The Private and Powerful Family Behind The New York Times, was published in 1999 and became a finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award in Biography. Such esteemed publications as Time magazine, the Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, The Christian Science Monitor, and Business Week named it one of the year’s best books. His new book, Losing The News: The Future of the News That Feeds Democracy, will be published by Oxford University Press in August. No less an authority than William Safire, the famed New York Times columnist, calls it “the sleeper book of the year.”

From 1993 to 1997, Jones concentrated on his radio career. He hosted National Public Radio’s On the Media, a live, two-hour program that examined all aspects of news coverage and media issues. He has also served as host and executive editor of PBS’ Media Matters.

In 1998, he and Tiftt took on a joint venture in academia, a post as the Eugene C. Patterson Professor of the Practice of Journalism at Duke University. In 2000, Jones joined Harvard University, where he had held a Nieman Fellowship in 1981, as the director of the Joan Shorenstein Center on the Press, Politics, and Public Policy at the John F. Kennedy School of Government. He is also the Laurence M. Lombard Lecturer in the Press and Public Policy. The Shorenstein Center explores the intersection of press, politics and public policy in theory and practice.

Jones is considered one of the nation’s authoritative voices on media issues. His op-eds have been published by The New York Times and The Washington Post, and he appears on television public-affairs programs ranging from the News Hour with Jim Lehrer to The O’Reilly Factor. He serves on the boards of many professional organizations, including the Committee of Concerned Journalists, the Foundation of the Society of Professional Journalists, and Harvard’s Nieman Foundation. Over the years, he has returned to W&L to share his experiences with the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications, and in 2007, he made a gift to the University to support two summer journalism interns for three years. In 2008, W&L recognized him with a Distinguished Alumnus Award.

We are pleased and proud to recognize our alumnus for his achievements and his sterling career as an award-winning journalist and author. Washington and Lee University hereby confers upon Alex Jones the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

It is fitting that today Washington and Lee honors an influential voice in media ethics, Susan Elizabeth Tift. We were, after all, one of the first universities to incorporate into our curriculum the academic study of journalism in society, emphasizing professional responsibility and journalistic integrity. We strive to view journalism, and, indeed, all of our disciplines, in the context of honor, personal integrity and duty. So does Susan Tift.

Tift holds a bachelor's degree in English from Duke University and a master's degree in public administration from the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard. Duke selected her to speak for her class at her 1973 graduation, and, as the first member of her alma mater's young-trustee program, she served on Duke's board.

Tift embarked on her renowned and prolific career in journalism at Time magazine, where she worked as a national writer and associate editor from 1982 to 1991. She has published hundreds of articles in such widely ranging and widely read publications as Time, The New Yorker, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, Smithsonian Magazine, the Chicago Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, Glamour, and Working Woman, to name but a few.

In 1999, Tift co-authored with her husband, Alex Jones, the best-selling and award-winning book The Trust: The Private and Powerful Family Behind The New York Times. It is, in itself, a mammoth work of journalism that illuminates the role and the power of that newspaper, and the ethical implications of the many complicated decisions involved in daily journalism. Her first biography, also co-authored with Jones, was The Patriarch: The Rise and Fall of the Bingham Dynasty, an acclaimed account of the family behind the Louisville, Kentucky, newspapers. Today Tift is the Eugene C. Patterson Professor of the Practice of Journalism and Public Policy Studies at Duke University. She recently received the ultimate tribute from Duke, which created the Susan Tift Undergraduate Teaching/Mentoring Award. The university will give it each year to the person who best embodies Susan Tift's gift and passion for teaching.

In our society's understanding of how to parse the ever-increasing flow of information through news outlets, Tift is an important voice. She brings to her readers remarkable insight into print and broadcast journalism, and a profound understanding of the media, their owners, and the influences that shape them. William Ascher, former director of the Sanford Institute of Public Policy at Duke, described Tift as "among the few practicing journalists who are exploring the role of media in the policy-making process and the ethical responsibilities of journalists."

For her leadership, high attainments and moral influence in the profession of journalism, Washington and Lee is proud to confer upon Susan Tift the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

ARRANGEMENTS ON W&L'S COLONNADE

FIRST AID: The Student Health staff is available in the lobby of Washington Hall at each ceremony to assist those who need first aid. They are also able to contact a local rescue squad in case of an emergency.

PHOTOGRAPHS: A “Class of 2009” banner has been set up on the Colonnade for individuals, families, and other groups who may want a “photo op.” There are locations near the line-up area and along the procession route that might offer other opportunities for photographs.

Amateur photographers are asked to be aware of and respect others taking pictures, including the University’s photographers. An area near the stage is reserved for guests who want to take pictures of graduates receiving their diplomas. Space and line-of-sight limitations prevent us from accommodating video tripods near the stage during the ceremony.

Families or friends of graduates from the Williams School (BS or BA degrees) may find the best vantage point is left of the stage facing the chapel; those of graduates receiving BA or BS degrees from the College may find the best spot is right of the stage facing the chapel.

Photographs may also be viewed and purchased online at photostore.wlu.edu.

REST ROOMS: Rest rooms for guests are available inside the main lobby of Washington Hall, the central building on the Colonnade, and at adjacent buildings.

SAFETY: Members of the Public Safety staff are in uniform and scattered about the campus during the ceremonies. If you have questions or need assistance, please feel free to seek them out. You may reach a member of the public safety staff at 540.458.8999.

WATER: The University provides complimentary water stations to the sides and rear of the seating area. Faculty and graduates also have bottled water at their seats.

Comments and questions may be sent to registrar@wlu.edu.
