FACULTY GRANT AVAILABLE FOR BLENDED LEARNING AND TEACHING PROJECTS

Grants are available from the consortium for projects related to blended teaching and learning. The consortium invites faculty from ACS institutions to submit a pre-proposal (no more than three pages) that includes the key faculty member, the nature of the project, the project goals, the timeline, the cooperating faculty and institutions, and the means by which the project will be assessed. An endorsement from the academic deans should also be provided.

The overall aim of the projects is to enable faculty to explore, design, develop or enhance courses, modules, webinars and/or tutorials for use in blended teaching and learning environments (a combination of face-to-face instruction and computer-mediated instruction) that will be open to students across the ACS campuses. Special consideration will be given to inter-institutional projects.

Interested faculty should send a pre-proposal to proposal@colleges.org no later than February 1, 2013. Proposals will be considered soon thereafter by the review committee and those who prepare successful pre-proposals will be invited to prepare and submit full proposals by March 20, 2013.

Faculty who have questions or seek further information are invited to contact Christiane Williams at christiane@colleges.org.

More information and proposal guidelines may be found at http://www.colleges.org/blended_learning/index.html.

The ACS Announcements are sent several times a semester to all faculty and staff at ACS member institutions. All announcements are approved by ACS. For more information about this newsletter, please contact Dara Hawkins at dhawkins@colleges.org. If you know of ACS faculty or staff members who are not receiving this newsletter and would like to receive it, they may request that they be added to the list by sending a blank email to palladian-subscribe@colleges.org. You may remove yourself from the list by sending an email to palladian-unsubscribe@colleges.org.
